Strong winds and thunderstorms moving through the area April 26 had Cotton Electric crews on alert working to restore outages and replace broken poles throughout the service territory. Fewer than 1,000 members were without power due to substation outages and downed lines caused by broken poles. Approximately 15 distribution poles were damaged during the storm. The majority of outages were located in the southern half of Stephens County. In most cases, power was restored in less than two hours by the line crews. Repair work continues on damage from this storm and another on April 29.
