*“Whereas linemen leave their families and put their lives on the line every day to keep the power on;
Whereas linemen work 365 days a year under dangerous conditions to build, maintain and repair the electric infrastructure;
Whereas linemen are the first responders of the electric cooperative family, getting power back on and making things safe for all after storms and accidents; and
Whereas there would be no electric cooperatives without the brave men and women who comprise our corps of linemen;
Therefore be it resolved that NRECA recognize the Second Monday of April of each year as National Lineman Appreciation Day and make available to electric cooperatives, materials and support to recognize the contributions of these valuable men and women to America’s Electric Cooperatives.”*

NRECA Board Resolution (2015)

Heroes in hardhats, #ThankALineman

By Danielle Quickle

Imagine waking up to a phone call in the middle of the night. Rain is coming down, wind is howling but you’re ready and willing to brave the storm to do your job. This scenario is a reality for the linemen who serve the members of Cotton Electric and electric cooperatives across the nation.

If your power is on, you likely have a lineman to thank. Every second Monday in April, we recognize our linemen during National Lineman Appreciation Day. This day is set aside to show appreciation for the men and women who devote their lives to delivering and maintaining quality power. Without them, we would be lost in the dark, literally. Cotton Electric Cooperative linemen service thousands of members along 5,163 miles of line in eight counties across southwest Oklahoma ... including you.

Springtime in Oklahoma is famous for its treacherous winds and damaging storms that can lead to power outages. While we are taking cover, our linemen are taking action. Prepared to leave their families at a moment’s notice, unsure of when they will return, linemen risk their lives for the comfort of our own.

Even when there is no crisis, they work in dangerous conditions on a daily basis. Whether they are working in trenches, near water or on high towers, the risks are extreme. Journeymen, apprentices, and crewmen undergo lengthy and frequent training to ensure the safest and most reliable electricity possible.

From the substation, the power grid crisscrossing counties both overhead and underground and right up to the meters on poles, these men and women build and maintain the system that keeps southwest Oklahoma running.

If you report your power is out to Cotton Electric, our dispatcher analyzes where the problem is and notifies the linemen. Equipment is loaded, hardhats are put on and your call is responded to immediately.

Depending on the situation, power restoration could take a few days or happen in a flash. There are no breaks and no down time until your power is fully restored. This is why we #ThankALineman.

April 9 is the official 2018 calendar date for National Lineman Appreciation Day. However, any day is a good day to show your appreciation.

Next time you see our linemen around town or at a community event, take a few minutes to tell them how much you appreciate the time they take away from their families to restore your power. Have kids at home? Use arts and crafts time to make a thank-you card for the linemen and drop it off at one of our offices or warehouses. Take your story of appreciation to social media with #ThankALineman.

Not all heroes wear capes. Ours wear hardhats.

Linemen make up just a handful of the employees at Cotton Electric who are committed to serving their members.

From the CEO

Advocating for rural Oklahoma

Advocacy is defined as the act or process of supporting a cause or proposal. In recent days, we’ve seen many of our friends and neighbors advocating for causes that are important to them. It’s great to live in a country where we can speak freely.

I believe one of my most significant responsibilities as a CEO of an electric cooperative is to advocate for rural America. Cotton Electric recently had the opportunity to travel with several other Oklahoma cooperatives to the National Association of Rural Electric Cooperatives (NRECA) Legislative Conference in Washington, D.C.

During the conference, we had the privilege of seeing NRECA CEO Jim Matheson and NRECA President Phil Carson present Sen. James Inhofe, R-Okla., with the Distinguished Service Award. Inhofe is a past chairman of the Senate Environment and Public Works Committee and a long-time supporter of electric cooperatives.

At the conclusion of the conference, we headed toward the Capitol, meeting with the Oklahoma congressional delegation and staff. My Fitbit was smoking by the end of each day from the many steps we took around the Capitol.

We had several important items to discuss such as the 2018 Farm Bill, broadband access, and the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) Public Assistance Program. Here are a few of the highlights of our discussions:

2018 FARM BILL

The current Farm Bill expires in 2018 and the House and Senate Agriculture committees have already begun an extensive process to reauthorize this legislation. As Congress begins to draft new Farm Bill legislation, it should contain tools that help electric cooperatives perform some of our most basic functions like financing for basic electrification needs that are still essential to keeping the lights on in rural America and supporting economic development efforts in the communities we serve.

RURAL BROADBAND INFRASTRUCTURE FUNDING

Another item that is vital to our rural economies is broadband infrastructure funding. We called upon our Members of Congress to dedicate funds to developing broadband deployment in unserved and under-served areas of our country. We recognize that low density continues to be the largest barrier to broadband deployment and requested funding for loan and grant programs.

FEMA DISASTER ASSISTANCE

Cotton Electric and other cooperatives across the nation depend on FEMA’s Public Assistance Program to help restore power to our members after natural disasters such as floods, fires, tornadoes, hurricanes and ice storms. Co-ops serve on average 7 consumers per mile of line (Cotton Electric averages less at 4.3 members per mile), including some of the most rugged terrain of any electric utility, yet own and operate 42 percent of the distribution lines in the country. As such, disasters can have a disproportionate impact on electric cooperatives and our member-consumers. Congress made electric co-ops eligible for FEMA reimbursements to mitigate these costs, keep electricity prices down and ensure smooth recoveries from major natural disasters for not-for-profit, consumer-owned utilities. Without FEMA financial assistance, many co-op consumers living in disaster-stricken areas could face significantly higher electric rates. We support developing ways to streamline disaster recovery programs while maintaining our commitment to efficient disaster recovery.

Thank you for the opportunity to represent Cotton Electric and advocate for rural America. If you would like to learn more about these issues, visit action.coop and click on ‘Learn More’.

Senator James Inhofe was recognized with the Distinguished Service Award at the NRECA Legislative Conference in Washington, D.C.

CECF announces recent contributions

Pennies, nickels, dimes and quarters – set enough of them aside on a regular basis, and the coins add up to dollars. That’s how Operation Round Up works.

Most Cotton Electric members participate in ORU, in which power bills are rounded up to the nearest dollar. The amount rounded up can be as little as 1 cent and is never more than 99 cents. On average, each participating member contributes about $6 each year.

The funds are pooled and administered by the Cotton Electric Charitable Foundation, a board of directors that meets quarterly to consider grant applications. The board consists of Jennifer Meason, the co-op’s CEO; Ronnie Bohot, president of the co-op’s board of trustees; and three representatives from the Cotton Electric service area: Carly Douglass, Danny Marlett and Carter Waid.

The board met in March to review 22 grant applications. Grants totaling $28,379 will be distributed to 13 of the applicants. First-quarter grants include:

- Beautiful Day Foundation: A $1,844 CECF grant will purchase a computer and software.
- Cameron University Foundation: A $2,700 CECF grant will support student housing for the CU Engineering and Applied Mathematics Summer Academy.
- Central High School Math Department: A $3,870 CECF grant will purchase TI-84 Plus CE calculators for their program.

- Town of Chattanooga: A $1,215 CECF grant will provide LED light fixtures.
- Friends of Elgin Community Library: A $2,500 CECF grant will support the construction of a handicap entry.
- Elgin Little League: A $2,500 CECF grant will purchase a storage shed for equipment.
- Elgin Middle School: A $2,500 CECF grant will support the Winter Wishes program.
- Gabriel’s House: A $2,000 CECF grant will supply playground equipment.
- Girl Scouts – Western Oklahoma: A $2,000 CECF grant will support summer camp fees.
- Indiahoma Public Schools: A $500 CECF grant

Download CECF grant applications at CottonElectric.com. Deadline for second-quarter 2018 grant applications is May 23.

Operation Round Up is a voluntary program and members may opt out at any time by calling or sending a letter or email stating the account holder’s name, account number and the request to be removed.

will support reading program incentives.

- Last Frontier Council, Boy Scouts of America: A $1,400 CECF grant will support camperships for Boy and Cub Scouts.
- Walters Volunteer Fire Department: A $2,850 CECF grant will purchase an electric hose tester.
- FBC Marlow: A $2,500 CECF grant will assist with medical expenses related to a catastrophic accident.

CECF has awarded or pledged grants totaling $1,056,801.11 since the foundation was established in 2004.

Applications for 2018 second-quarter grants are due May 23. Downloadable applications are available at CottonElectric.com.

Energy Efficiency

Tip of the Month

Make sure your refrigerator door seals are airtight for maximum energy efficiency. Test the seal by closing the door over a piece of paper (so that it’s half in and half out). If you can easily pull the piece of paper out, your seal may need to be replaced or the latch may need to be adjusted.

McCary recognized by OAEC for service

By Karen Kaley

Tim McCary was honored with the Good Neighbor Award for Meritorious Service during the recent annual meeting of the Oklahoma Association of Electric Cooperatives (OAEC).

McCary has worked exceptionally hard to enhance the image of rural electrification. McCary has dedicated himself to understanding the issues affecting the cooperative membership and has strived to make decisions which would improve the rural electrification program and improve the lives of the cooperative's members. He is particularly proud of the way Cotton Electric serves its members and the positive perception that is reflected back on the cooperative.

McCary joined the Cotton Electric board of trustees in April 1977. During his 41 years on the board, he has held all offices, serving twice as president in 1985-87 and 2013-15.

He was Cotton's voting delegate on the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association in 2013 and on the Western Farmers Electric Cooperative (WFEC) board in from 1993 to 1999. During his time on the WFEC board, the group worked to have a short railroad line built to the plant, thus improving flexibility and access for coal delivery.

McCary is a strong supporter of the efforts and programs of OAEC. He has encouraged Cotton Electric's participation in Special Olympics, YouthPower Energy Camp and Youth Tour; backed Cotton's role in developing a safety manual used throughout the state; and advocates OAEC's policy of staying abreast of legislative issues that affect electric cooperatives.

McCary also served on the board of Cotton Electric Cooperative's charitable foundation. He helped oversee and distribute funds donated by the cooperative's members. These donations assisted several organizations and families and improved the safety, health and education in this area.

McCary is a lifelong resident of Tillman County, carrying forward the family's farming and ranching business. He is an OSU alumni, another family tradition that now encompasses three generations. He and his wife, Susan, have a son, a daughter and five grandchildren.

Jones honored by Duncan Chamber

By Karen Kaley

Tommy Jones, longtime member of Cotton Electric's board of trustees, was honored recently for service to his hometown. During the annual Duncan Chamber of Commerce banquet, Jones received the Lifetime Achievement Award, recognizing outstanding civic contributions and leadership in the pursuit of improved quality of life in Duncan.

Chamber presenters said, "Much of the progress in our community is a direct result of his involvement and belief that Duncan is a great place to live, invest, and raise a family."

Jones was instrumental in developing an integrated health care system to serve southwest Oklahoma's progress and growth. He played a key role in the January 1977 launch of Duncan Regional Hospital.

Jones has served and continues to serve on many boards in Duncan, Stephens County and throughout Oklahoma. He joined the Cotton Electric board of trustees in November 1984, representing District #6, an area surrounding Duncan.

During the past 33 years, he has served the Cotton Electric board as secretary-treasurer, vice president and was president for three years, 1994-66. He was Cotton's voting delegate on the Western Farmers Electric Cooperative board in 2010 and on the Oklahoma Association of Electric Cooperatives board in 1992-94.

Upon receiving the Lifetime Achievement Award, Jones said, "I have always enjoyed serving my community. If I could, I would do it all again."

Performances of Lawton Community Theatre’s presentation of “Rumors” are set for April 13-22 at John Denney Playhouse, 1316 NW Bell Avenue in Lawton.

Neil Simon’s two-act farce, set in Palisades, shows a dinner party gone topsy-turvy. An enjoyable romp that has been staged countless times, this is one of Simon’s most celebrated comedies. But it carries a subtle undercurrent of sadness, which becomes clearer when we set it alongside the events of the playwright’s life.

It is my pleasure to introduce Danielle Quickle, the new editor of The Current.

Folks around here usually respond to that introduction with, “Quickle? Is she related to ...?”

“Yes,” I reply, “she is married to Hunter, of the Chattanooga Quickles.”

Originally from Fort Cobb, Danielle has lived in or very near the Cotton Electric service area for most of her life. She and Hunter live in Snyder, where he teaches history and coaches softball.

Danielle recently earned a bachelor’s degree in communication from Cameron University. Her studies included a concentration in public relations, journalism and media production. She has done some summer work for the Lawton-Fort Sill Chamber of Commerce and for Western Farmers Electric Cooperative, Cotton Electric’s power supplier.

Danielle joined the Marketing Department in late February. She immediately began the learning and working process and, I must tell you, I am very excited about the future of The Current and Cotton Electric’s presence in the digital world.

We chose Danielle to help the newspaper and the co-op make the most of the ever-evolving world of communications. She will be an excellent provider of education, training and information, the fifth of the seven cooperative principles.

In a few short weeks, she has proven to be capable and organized. She takes her job seriously, but not so much that she doesn’t enjoy a good laugh with The Current’s advertising representative, Jennifer Kriz.

I think The Current will be in very good hands.

And me? I’m still here. I’ve been promoted and now carry the rather long title of Marketing and Communications Director.

The new editor allows me to put more time and energy into many other things, such as the Cotton Electric Charitable Foundation and the co-op’s annual meeting, all while keeping the co-op involved in the communities we serve, the seventh of the cooperative principles.

And, I’ll keep my hand in with The Current, offering guidance for Danielle ... though I think she’s going to be fine on her own.

When you see her out and about, be sure to welcome her with the same warmth and kindness you have shown me.

Should you join the collagen craze?

In recent years I have noticed an increase in friends taking collagen and hairdressers and nail technicians encouraging the use of collagen. Claims range from reducing wrinkles and helping hair and nails grow to reversing aging. Is there any truth to this advice?

Collagen is a protein that makes up the structure of skin, bones, muscles, blood vessels, digestive system, tendons, and all connective tissue; it is the most abundant protein in the human body.

It provides strength and structure. As you age, your ability to make collagen decreases, hence the development of wrinkles and pain in bones and joints. Some researchers suggest collagen production begins to diminish at age 20; no wonder we are all looking for the fountain of youth in collagen supplements!

Kim Bandelier, MPH, RD, LD

Food For THOUGHT

You can get collagen from your diet. Collagen comes from animals (land and sea), so if you eat animal sources of protein and foods like bone broth, you are going to ingest collagen.

Vegetables do not contain collagen but there are nutrients in vegetables that promote collagen creation in the body, including Vitamins C, A, and E.

Do collagen supplements work? Researchers are still working to provide more definitive answers.

Based on the best available research, ingesting collagen supplements in doses of between 5 grams and 20 grams for periods up to 24 weeks does improve skin health for a short period of time. Research does not indicate that collagen can prevent the eventual development of wrinkles.

Higher doses of collagen appear to improve joint health; chat with your doctor if you are interested in taking collagen for joint health.

As well, if you experience a wound, ingestion of collagen can improve the speed and quality of repair and healing. The effect of collagen on hair and nails is not currently substantiated in the research literature.

A healthy, well rounded diet combined with self-care of skin, hair, and nails is the best route until the research becomes more robust.

Collagen for joint health is more compelling but only with a doctor's recommendation.

Dietary supplements are not required to meet the Food and Drug Administration's safety regulations before being sold.

It is important that you do your homework with the help of a healthcare professional before starting any dietary supplement.

Thai Peanut Buddha Bowl

Active time: 15 minutes Total time: 30 minutes
Servings: 4

- Olive oil spray
2 skinless, boneless chicken breasts (12 ounces total)
- Dressing:
1/2 cup peanut butter
3 tablespoons coconut milk
1 tablespoon fish sauce
2 teaspoons hot chili sauce
2 garlic cloves, minced
1 tablespoon minced fresh ginger
1 tablespoon sesame oil
3 tablespoons hot water
4 cups baby spinach
1 ripe Hass avocado, thinly sliced
1 medium zucchini, cut into noodle shapes
2 carrots, cut into noodle shapes
2 radishes, thinly sliced
8 sprigs cilantro

Nutritional information per serving: 10.8 g net carbs; 427 calories; 18.1 g total carbs; 7.3 g fiber; 21.8 g protein; 30.7 g fat.

Heat oven to 400 F.

Coat small skillet with olive oil spray. Add chicken to skillet and cook 3-4 minutes, turning once or twice to brown chicken. Slide into oven and bake 6- 8 minutes, until chicken is cooked through and no longer pink in center when sliced with a knife. Set aside to rest 5 minutes then shred.

To make dressing: In large bowl, mix peanut butter, coconut milk, fish sauce, chili sauce, garlic, ginger, sesame oil and hot water. Whisk well until smooth.

Divide spinach and avocado among four bowls. Top with chicken, zucchini, carrots, radishes and cilantro. Drizzle with dressing and serve immediately.

Tip: If you don't have a spiralizer, you can achieve the same effect by using a vegetable peeler to shave thin ribbons. You can also use a mandoline vegetable slicer then use a knife to cut the strips into thinner noodle-like strips.

Add healthy avocado for fresh, creamy flavor

Egg-Filled Avocado with Prosciutto

Active time: 10 minutes Total time: 15 minutes Servings: 4

- 6 ounces watercress or baby spinach
- 2 tablespoons balsamic vinegar
- 8 large eggs
- 4 ripe Hass avocados, halved lengthwise and pitted
- olive oil spray
- 8 slices (about 4 ounces) prosciutto

Nutritional information per serving: 4.1g net carbs; 422 calories; 16 g total carbs; 11.9 g fiber; 18.5 g protein; 34 g fat.

Place the watercress or baby spinach in large bowl. Drizzle with balsamic vinegar and toss well. Divide among four small plates.

In large skillet, heat 2 inches water over medium heat until bubbles cover bottom and sides of pan. Crack eggs into small bowl (do not use eggs with broken yolks). When a few bubbles have broken surface of water, gently pour each egg into pan, leaving room between them.

Cook eggs, without stirring, until whites are just set and yolks are still runny, 2-3 minutes. Use rubber spatula to gently release eggs from bottom of pan, if necessary. Using slotted spoon, remove eggs from water and drain on paper towels.

Place poached egg in each avocado half. Coat medium skillet with olive oil spray. Heat skillet over medium heat and add prosciutto. Cook until crispy, about 2 minutes per side. Transfer two avocado-filled egg halves to each plate and serve immediately with two slices prosciutto.

  - 1/2 cup fresh or frozen berries such as blackberries, strawberries or raspberries
  - 2 tablespoons almond or walnut halves

Golf tourney set for June

Golf enthusiasts have a great opportunity to spend a day on an 18-hole championship course while helping to raise funds to help organizations and individuals throughout southwest Oklahoma.

The 10th annual Cotton Electric Charitable Foundation (CECF) Summer Classic will be June 25 at The Territory Golf and Country Club in Duncan. The tournament is held to raise awareness of CECF and to generate funds for Operation Round Up (ORU).

ORU is primarily funded by Cotton Electric Cooperative members who “round up” their monthly bill to the nearest dollar. The funds are administered by CECF, which meets quarterly to consider grant applications. Since its inception in 2004, CECF has awarded more than $1 million to volunteer fire departments, youth, senior citizen and public safety organizations, schools, communities and individuals throughout the Cotton Electric service area.

Registration for the four-person scramble will begin at 7:30 a.m. with a shotgun start at 8:30. The registration fee of $600 per team will include range balls, cart, and a meal following the round.

Individual, team and door prizes will be awarded. To enter, players’ names and handicap or average scores can be faxed to 580-875-3101. Deadline for entries and fee payment is Monday, June 11.

Two levels of hole sponsorship are available. Hole sponsors who also enter a team receive a $100 discount on entry fees.

For information about the scramble or becoming a sponsor, call Bryce Hooper at 580-875-3351 or email bhooper@cottonelectric.com.

Gavin Banks and Cole Newport, both of Marlow High School, Calli Ray of Walters High School, and Gabhriel Barber of Eisenhower High School will travel to Washington, D.C., in June.

Teens to represent CEC at the nation’s captial

By Danielle Quickle

With the end of March came the end of the 2018 Cotton Electric Youth Tour competition. Since November of last year, students have been competing to win an expense-paid trip to Washington, D.C., as part of the Rural Electric Youth Tour program.

The competition was prompted by a call for entries answered with submissions from 112 high school juniors from 10 schools in Cotton Electric’s service area. These students wrote essays that reflected the topic of “Energy Efficiency: How it Affects Me and Cotton Electric.”

Each essay was given a number as it arrived, in order to be judged anonymously. After the first round of competition, the essays were narrowed to the top 25 and the students were invited to Cotton Electric for an in-person interview.

Students were asked, among other questions, to state the difference between cooperatives and other businesses and why they would make an excellent representative for Cotton Electric in Washington, D.C. The results of these interviews are what determined our 10 finalists, listed by school:

Eisenhower High School: Gabhriel Barber, daughter of Corey and Felisha Barber;

Walters High School: Calli Ray, daughter of Michael and Christy Ray; Sayre Tillery, son of Cydni and Brantley Tillery; and Sierra Haney, daughter of Retta and Scotty Hollander;

Velma-Alma High School: Macey Paramore, daughter of Krista and Dustin Paramore;

Grove Academy Homeschool: Grant Anthony, son of Roni Alexander;

Marlow High School: Cole Newport, son of Nita Newport; Gavin Banks, son of Mindy and Tandy Banks; and Madison Baker, daughter of Monica and Kenny Baker; and Central High High School: Nathaniel Wright, son of Tami and Steve Wright.

Our top 10 arrived at Cotton Electric on the evening of March 29 to partake in the final phase of the competition. Each high school junior gave a five-minute oral presentation of his or her winning essay in hopes of being selected by the judges as one of the four winners headed to the nation’s capital.

Students presented their speeches to Michael Harris, marketing and public relations director for the National Rural Water Association; Sondra Boykin, communication coordinator for Western Farmers Electric Cooperative; and Haley Hoover, communications specialist for Southwest Rural Electric.

One speech gave examples of how to conserve energy while at home saying, “we turn off lights when we leave rooms, unplug appliances when they are not in use, and we have a wood burning fire place to warm the house during winter instead of running a heater,” and another concluded with “save energy and gain efficiency, using what you need and not what you don’t.”

One student reflected on the topic of energy efficiency, revealing that she “thinks of efficiency as a philosophy that paves the way for improvement and cooperation with the smartest qualities and quantities of resources available,” while another student contemplated the beginning days of Cotton Electric noting that “in today’s time, we take electricity for granted, and we do not completely comprehend what it took to get where we are.”

After each student presented, the judges retired to determine the four winners. Scoring of each speech was weighted 50 percent on speaking ability, 30 percent on knowledge of subject, 10 percent on poise, and 10 percent on personality and appearance. Total scores revealed the four students who would be representing Cotton Electric in Washington this summer. Those students are Gavin Banks, Gabhriel Barber, Cole Newport and Calli Ray.

The quartet will join 1,500 students from all over the United States and follow itineraries filled with activities from the moment they arrive until the day they fly back home. The students will have an opportunity to visit with Oklahoma’s congressional delegation and learn about government, the cooperative form of business, and the business of rural electrification.

They will become more familiar with the historical and political environment of the nation’s capital through visits to monuments, government offices and cooperative organizations.

These young Oklahomans will become more knowledgeable about their country, their government and our nation’s capital.

OKFB names Doye executive director

The Oklahoma Farm Bureau board of directors announced Thad Doye has been selected to serve as the farm organization’s new executive director.

Doye will lead OKFB’s staff, overseeing the day-to-day operations of Oklahoma’s largest general farm organization.

“We are excited to have a lifelong Oklahoma farmer and rancher serving Oklahoma Farm Bureau as our executive director,” OKFB President Rodd Moesel said. “Thad brings with him decades of experience in agriculture, Farm Bureau, and a servant’s heart that we know will help him build and grow our organization to better serve our state’s farming and ranching families.”

Doye was chosen by the OKFB board after a comprehensive national search.

“Oklahoma agriculture and Oklahoma Farm Bureau have some exciting opportunities ahead, but we also realize we face some challenges,” Doye said. “Farm Bureau members created this organization to help improve agriculture and rural Oklahoma, and I will work with OKFB staff and Farm Bureau leaders to ensure our organization is making the future brighter for our state.”

A native of Lawton, Doye began his career at OKFB in 1998 as a field representative before being named vice president of field services and later moving to the position of crop insurance manager for Oklahoma Farm Bureau Insurance.

Doye was selected to serve as OKFB’s interim executive director in July 2017.

For the past several years, Doye has helped build the Oklahoma Farming & Ranching Foundation’s Pork for Packs and Beef for Backpacks programs by transporting donated animals that are processed into protein sticks for hungry Oklahoma children in cooperation with local food banks.

Doye, and his wife, Marla, raised three children – Christann (Dilks), Chasen and Cortlin – on the family’s Comanche County farm where they grow wheat and cover crops and raise cattle.

Kinder receives Governor’s award

On April 10 at the state Capitol, Jimmy Kinder of Walters was presented with the Governor’s Agriculture Environmental Stewardship Award. The award recognizes Oklahoma agriculturalists who are leaders in developing and adopting outstanding environmentally innovative agricultural practices. This award highlights the efforts of an Oklahoma agricultural producer who is a steward of the environment and is dedicated to conserving the natural resources of Oklahoma while helping to ensure a continued supply of food and fiber.

Kinder is a fourth-generation farmer and rancher from Cotton County and an early innovator in Oklahoma agriculture. His family farms 5,500 acres of crop and grow 2,500 of grass and run stocker cattle.

He has implemented the agricultural production methods of no-tillage cropping, crop rotation, cover crops and stocker cattle grazing. His agricultural production system offers superior economic, environmental and social benefits.

“We live in exciting times,” Kinder said. “A conservation renaissance is happening on farms and ranches across Oklahoma. God willing, this generation has the capability to begin repairing soils, soils that were damaged almost 100 years ago during the Dust Bowl.

The next generation will inherit better soils than we received. Never in history have we had this opportunity.”

This production system uses less to get more, and the benefits go beyond production. Using no-till rather than conventional tillage reduces runoff and keeps the soil in place, so the county doesn’t have to clean bar ditches, and keeps nutrients in the soil.

Kinder and his wife Margaret Ann have been married for 38 years and have three children and three grandchildren. He said the rich soil he has created using emerging technology and his multi-faceted production system is the true inheritance he will leave to his children.

“I am overwhelmed to be the recipient of Governor Fallin’s Agriculture Environmental Stewardship Award,” Kinder said. “To me, this award recognizes a family tradition of over four generations to feed consumers from the land that God allows us to manage.”
